

DR. STEPHEN WARD IN COURT TODAY

Dr. Stephen Ward, aged 50, the osteopath who has been one of the central figures in the Profumo affair, will appear before the Marlborough Street Magistrate today charged with living on immoral earnings. He was arrested on Saturday in the street, and spent the weekend in custody at Marylebone Lane police station.

The charge he faces has been laid under section 30 of the Sexual Offences Act, 1956. It alleges that "he, being a man, on diverse dates between January 1, 1961, and June 8, 1963, knowingly lived wholly or in part on the earnings of prostitution at 17, Wimpole Mews, W.1".

Section 30 states:—

- (1) It is an offence for a man knowingly to live wholly or in part on the earnings of prostitution.
- (2) For the purpose of this section a man who lives with or is habitually in the company of a prostitute, or who exercises control, direction, or influence over a prostitute's movements in a way which shows he is aiding, abetting, or compelling her prostitution with others, shall be presumed to be knowingly living on the earnings of prostitution unless he proves the contrary.

The charge can be dealt with summarily before a magistrate or be heard before a jury. The choice of court is within the discretion of the prosecution alone.

It was a few minutes after midday when Chief Inspector S. Herbert and Detective Sergeant J. Burrows arrested Dr. Ward in Hempstead Road, North Watford, near a cottage where he was spending the weekend. He was wearing blue trousers, carpet slippers and sunglasses.

The officers had first gone to Dr. Ward's home in Bryanston Mews, but after waiting for some time left and went to Watford. Later police officers went to the mews house again and examined the rooms.

Dr. Ward is the son of Canon Arthur Evelyn Ward, a former Canon of Rochester Cathedral, who died in 1944. He qualified as a doctor of osteopathy in America and is on the register of osteopaths there. Among those he has treated are Sir Winston Churchill, Mr. Paul Getty, Mr. Douglas Fairbanks, and Miss Elizabeth Taylor. He has a consulting room in Devonshire Street, Marylebone.

He has a reputation as an artist. In 1960 he held an exhibition of his drawings in London. His sitters have included the Duke of Edinburgh, the Duke of Gloucester, Princess Margaret and Lord Snowdon, Princess Marina, Duchess of Kent, and Princess Alexandra.

ACCUSED OF MITCHAM CO-OP. ROBBERY

The trial opened at the Central Criminal Court yesterday of Charles Connelly, aged 38, a painter, of Walworth Road, S.E., who pleaded Not Guilty to a charge that being armed with firearms he was concerned with others in robbing Alan Davies on November 17 last year of £519 10s. belonging to the Royal Arsenal Co-operative Society at Mitcham.

Mr. M. Griffiths-Jones, for the prosecution, said the charge arose out of a robbery, and indeed a murder which took place at the society's dairy depot, Mitcham, just before 9 p.m. on November 17. "But you are not concerned with the murder", said counsel. What was alleged was that Connelly and three other men named Kelly, Hilton, and Thatcher drove to the dairy depot armed with guns. Whilst Thatcher stood guard outside it was alleged that the other three, wearing masks, and holding pistols, held up Mr. Davies and another cashier who were behind the counter.

During the raid another dairy employee walked past the entrance to the office, and Thatcher, thinking this man might interfere with what was going on, fired several shots and killed him. Thatcher then called to his companions and after seizing more than £500 all four made good their escape. The trial is expected to last several days.

ALOYSIUS GORDON TO APPEAL

Aloysius Gordon, aged 31, Jamaican jazz singer, is to appeal against the three-year prison sentence imposed on him last week for an assault on Miss Christine Keeler, aged 21, a model. His solicitors, Lincoln and Lincoln, of Holborn, W.C., said yesterday that the appeal had not yet been lodged.

Gordon, who is in Wandsworth prison, was sentenced last Friday at the Central Criminal Court. After considering their verdict for 13 minutes the jury found Gordon Not Guilty of wounding Miss Keeler with intent to cause her grievous bodily harm, but Guilty of assaulting her by punching her in the face and kicking her in the chest, thereby occasioning actual bodily harm.

DR. STEPHEN WARD SEEKS BAIL

An application for bail on behalf of Dr. Stephen Ward, aged 50, the West End osteopath, is listed for hearing before Mr. Justice John Stephenson in the High Court Chambers today. He was remanded at Marlborough Street Magistrates' Court on Monday, charged with having "lived wholly or in part on the earnings of prostitution", at 17, Wimpole Mews, W.1. An application for bail was then refused.

DR. WARD MUST NOT ADVISE ON PORTRAITS

Dr. Stephen Ward, who is on remand in Brixton Prison, has been refused permission to identify any of the portraits he has painted which it is understood, were to be sold.

A Home Office spokesman told The Times last night that Dr. Ward's literary agent, Mr. Peñham Pound, visited the prison on Friday. "There is a rule that prisoners are not allowed to conduct business from prison", the spokesman said.

"The decision was made because it was understood that Mr. Pound's reason for wanting Dr. Ward to see them was to write captions and identify them in order to publish and sell them."

CHARGE AGAINST DR. WARD REFERS TO MISS X BEING PROCURED

ACCUSATION "A MYSTERY": BAIL REFUSED

Eight new charges to be made against Dr. Stephen Ward, aged 50, include one which "refers to a lady, Miss X, being procured on January 5, 1963", according to Mr. James Burge, appearing for the defence of the osteopath at Marlborough Street Magistrates' Court, yesterday.

Mr. Burge, applying unsuccessfully for bail, said the first five of the new charges—which were not read to the Court—were really detailed instances of the holding charge. They did not take the matter any farther.

He added: "It shows a certain degree of uncertainty in the prosecution. The sixth charge is a complete mystery to the accused."

"It refers to a lady, Miss X, being procured on January 5, 1963, and is all really a part of the same allegations."

THE TWO OTHER CHARGES

Mr. Burge went on: "The other two charges have nothing to do with security and have nothing to do with blackmail, which was one of the other matters hinted at. They are simply that he counselled and procured the commission of a felony by an unknown person—whether it is a good charge I do not know—of unlawfully using an instrument to procure the miscarriage of a woman."

They were not charges of such gravity that would in themselves be reason for refusing bail, Mr. Burge submitted.

inspector had mentioned Miss Keeler and Miss Rice-Davies, but Detective-chief-inspector Herbert said he had not mentioned Miss Rice-Davies.

Mr. Burge.—You did by inference.—I said possibly a witness had been advised to leave the country.

Are you saying that it is not Miss Rice-Davies?—That is so and it is in fact not Miss Rice-Davies.

Detective-chief-inspector Herbert said Miss Rice-Davies had not been charged. It had been suggested she would be charged.

"With what offence?", Mr. Burge asked.

Detective-chief-inspector Herbert replied: "They are still being investigated, sir." It had nothing whatever to do with the present case. He said that Miss Rice-Davies had been bailed to appear at Marylebone Magistrates' Court on June 28.

He agreed that that was the date for this case.

Mr. Burge.—Mr. Herbert, are you telling the truth?

Detective-chief-inspector Herbert.—Yes. Giving his decision to refuse bail, Mr. Gradwell said that when a charge was very serious, particularly so for a man in Ward's position because he was doctor, there was a very great temptation to abscond.

ward, charged with living wholly or in part on the earnings of prostitution, was making his third appearance in court. He was remanded until Friday, when the case will be heard at Marylebone Magistrates' Court.

Mr. Oliver Nugent, for the prosecution, said in applying for the remand in custody that he did not think it was necessary to read the new charges that were to be made.

Mr. Burge said in applying for bail that he had been handed that morning a copy of the proposed committal charges. He spoke of the first five charges as not taking the matter further, and added that it showed a certain degree of uncertainty in the prosecution in that they had invoked every section of the Act of Parliament—including the management of a brothel and living on immoral earnings, but they all arose out of the same circumstances and therefore did not affect the position.

About 120 of the demonstrators made their way along the fences of the establishment and got through, fences into the grounds surrounding the main laboratory building. One of a few however, came within 100 yds of the building by means of a rope and armoured vehicles before he had been arrested. They were subsequently charged under the Salvo Act by the War Department and refused to quit when requested.

Osteopath Given £3,000 Bail in Spite of Objection by Police

DR. WARD SENT FOR TRIAL ON SEVEN CHARGES

Stephen Ward, aged 50, an osteopath, left his home at Magdalen Court yesterday by taxi after having been charged with seven charges under the Criminal Law Act, 1951, relating to the Central Criminal Court on six of the eight original charges against him and on a ninth—living dishonestly or in part on the earnings of prostitution.

"CONTENT IN U.S. MAGAZINE"
When the Court opened, Mr. James Burgess, for the defence, said that the attention of the court should be drawn to the fact that the British press had been a background of unrelenting political discussion about the case.

THE CHARGES AGAINST DR. WARD
The charges listed against Ward are: (1) Between June 1, 1961, and July 31, 1962, at 17, Wimpole Mews, London, W.1, knowingly and unlawfully procuring the prostitution of Christine Keeler and other women; (2) Between June 1, 1961, and July 31, 1962, at 17, Wimpole Mews, London, W.1, knowingly and unlawfully procuring the prostitution of Christine Keeler and other women; (3) Between June 1, 1961, and July 31, 1962, at 17, Wimpole Mews, London, W.1, knowingly and unlawfully procuring the prostitution of Christine Keeler and other women; (4) Between June 1, 1961, and July 31, 1962, at 17, Wimpole Mews, London, W.1, knowingly and unlawfully procuring the prostitution of Christine Keeler and other women; (5) Between June 1, 1961, and July 31, 1962, at 17, Wimpole Mews, London, W.1, knowingly and unlawfully procuring the prostitution of Christine Keeler and other women; (6) Between June 1, 1961, and July 31, 1962, at 17, Wimpole Mews, London, W.1, knowingly and unlawfully procuring the prostitution of Christine Keeler and other women; (7) Between June 1, 1961, and July 31, 1962, at 17, Wimpole Mews, London, W.1, knowingly and unlawfully procuring the prostitution of Christine Keeler and other women.

Asked if he was happy about the charges against him, he said: "I am not happy about the charges against me. I am not happy about the charges against me. I am not happy about the charges against me."

Ward had told her it was all right. She was not happy about the charges against me. I am not happy about the charges against me. I am not happy about the charges against me.

After January 5, the agent telephoned to Norma and received from her the name and address of women to whom the woman had had a abortion. She had a abortion done by that woman. She had a abortion done by that woman.

Mr. Burgess—When you found you were being charged, did you accept it as a matter of course? Yes.

He said he would have absolutely nothing to do with it.—That is so.

He said that if you were pregnant, you should marry the man?—Yes, and I said that was my opinion.

Mr. Burgess—Does that mean as you were thought to know where she was this charge to be used to ensure the charge was given evidence for the prosecution?—Not at all.

Mr. Burgess—Did you have any conversation with Lord Astor's wife? I did not see her. I did not see her. I did not see her.

through the waters of the Clyde above the tunneling are no more than 420 feet across from bank to bank, each tunnel is 2,250 feet long from entrance to entrance.

The segments for lining the tunnels are of cast iron and all straight rings for No. 2 tunnel have been supplied by Carron Company. Each lining ring weighs just over 11 tons. For the faces of the completed rings to mate precisely, accuracy in terms of thousandths of an inch in the casting and machining of segments has been essential.

Carron Company has supplied 1,302 complete rings for the Clyde Tunnel: 14,765 tons of iron. Once in the tunnel every eighteen inches of advance has required some eight hours of precision labour.

Altogether, No. 2 tunnel is nearly half a mile of hewn carriageway, lined and made permanent by the best of Scottish craftsmanship and skill.

But none of this is new to the Company. They have worked with iron for more than 200 years. Hairsbreadth tolerances are their profession. And their catalogues mention "Cast Iron linings for railway tunnels and subways" at least as far back as 1870.

The Clyde Tunnel, on which work began on July 1st, 1957, represents another chapter in Carron Company's history; and it is the claim of the Company that it remains, as actively as ever before, a segment of the nation's industrial tapestry.

George III granted the Company its Royal Charter in 1773. Carron Company is proud of this honour, and today is believed to be the only industrial firm with this distinction.

AMUSING COMPANION
A middle aged, amply dressed and well spoken man, who was allowed to write down his name and address, said in evidence that he met Christine Keeler early in the afternoon.
"During that time she was living at 17, Wimpole Mews," he added. "I visited her at that flat about three or four times and had intercourse with her. On one occasion I paid her £10 and the other, £15." He said that no one else was in the flat when he was there.
"From the money he had paid Miss Keeler, he had also sent her money. He had telephoned her about money. He had been paid back the loans, the witness recalled. I was never paid back."
Mr. Burge—Did you take her out to restaurants and places?
The witness—Yes.
On the night of her intercourse, she was an attractive and an amusing companion?
Yes.
Over the two years, he gave Miss Keeler £100 to £120 in all. He saw Ward on one occasion at Wimpole Mews.

GIRL'S RETURN FROM JERSEY
The next witness was a young girl who was asked to write her name and address. Mr. Mervyn Griffith-Jones, for the prosecution, said that her evidence was concerned with charge number 6; alleging the commission of the unlawful use of an instrument to procure the miscarriage of Miss W. The girl said that in January, 1967, she was working as a model and was introduced by a friend to Ward at 17, Wimpole Mews.
Mr. Griffith-Jones—After that did intercourse take place between you?—Yes.
She said that while in Jersey she discovered that she had not come back to London immediately but did not tell him why. She returned to London and went to see Ward at Wimpole Mews and told him about her condition. She was invited by Ward to stay at Wimpole Mews.
Mr. Griffith-Jones—For what purpose?
—So that I could have an abortion.
Mr. Griffith-Jones—Who said anything about an abortion, or made arrangements for Miss W.—Christine Keeler. She was living at the flat at that time.
The girl said no one else was present when she discovered it with Christine Keeler. The abortion took place at 17, Wimpole Mews. It was a woman who came to the flat. Christine Keeler was present.

FRIEND OF FAMILY
Mr. Griffith-Jones—Did you pay anybody any money for it to be done?—No. The girl, replying to further questions, said she did not know if the woman was paid any money. After the operation she stayed in the flat for about four days.
Mr. Griffith-Jones—Did you speak to Stephen Ward about it or did he speak to you about it?—He said "was I well". That was the day she aborted.
There was nothing else said about it and she did not have conversation with anybody about payment.
In reply to Mr. Burge the girl said that she knew her mother, her grandmother and her sister.
Mr. Burge—And has been a friend of theirs for many years?—Yes.
The next witness was also a young girl who was allowed to write her name and address.
Mr. Griffith-Jones indicated that her evidence related to charge number 7 (the use of an instrument to procure the miscarriage of Miss W).
She said that she first met Ward late in 1961. Late in August, 1962, she telephoned to Ward. She added: "I told him I was pregnant and asked could he help me in any way. He asked me to see him and I went round to see him at his surgery. He said he could not do anything himself but he would put me in contact with someone who could and he mentioned a name and gave me a telephone number. The name mentioned was, however, someone said about the use of the operation?—He said she replied: "I do not want to. It is not that easy. Do you mean I went to bed with someone literally or on the couch or on the floor. I do not want to tell you what I did with him."

The Magistrate said that there was no need to say literally what happened and asked if anything improper took place.
Miss Richards did not answer.
In reply to Mr. Griffith-Jones she said: "Do you earn money in any other way?"
How is that?—By visiting men.
And being paid for them?—Yes.
"ACCUSED NEVER GIVEN MONEY"
Miss Richards told Mr. Griffith-Jones that she had had intercourse with Ward. She said that she went to bed with him at the flat and had intercourse with him.
Mr. Griffith-Jones—Did you receive anything from them?—Only money to go there by Ward. When she went to the flat in the evenings there would sometimes be somebody there or they would come later.
Asked how often she went to Britannia Mews and had intercourse with him, she said: "It was not that often because I was not very interested. It was only once or twice."
Mr. Griffith-Jones—How many times, all told, did you have intercourse at that flat?—It was several occasions.
She said she was not always paid money when she had intercourse with him.
She said that Ward was in the flat on the night of the abortion.
She said in answer to his only question, in or out of court, she had never given the accused any money at all.

ARREST OF WARD
The officer in charge of the case, Chief Inspector S. Herbert, said that on June 8, with Sergeant Brown, he saw Ward at Wulford, Hertfordshire, and said to him: "I have some making inquiries about you for the past few weeks. As a result I am now arresting you for being wholly or in part on the immoral earnings of prostitution on direct days since January 1, 1961."
He cautioned Ward, who said: "Oh my God, how dreadful. I shall deny it. Nobody will dare forward to say it is true."
Ward said he spent his minutes on April 2 and between then and June 7 when Ward was arrested, he interviewed 125 to 140 persons. One was Miss Keeler, who had been seen on 24 occasions.
He agreed that Miss Keeler had been seen on 12 occasions in connection with a case concerning Edgcombe and a case concerning Graham earlier by himself or other officers. The first interview with Miss Keeler was on April 4.
Mr. Burge—How many times have you interviewed the witness Miss Davies?—In connection with this matter, twice.
The officer said the second occasion was about June 14, he thought.
Mr. Burge—You also interviewed her on the afternoon of June 28 on this building?—No, sir.

PRACTICE ON LARCENY
Is it quite wrong you spoke to Miss Davies on June 28?—I spoke to her but I did not interview her.
Asked if he was in a room at the court with Miss Davies and a representative of a TV firm, Mr. Herbert replied: "I was in the same room but I was not with them. I was using a telephone at the time."
The Magistrate—You were taking no part in it?
In answer to Mr. Burge the officer said that he interviewed Miss Davies on June 17 but it was not about this case. He agreed that he was a uniformed chief inspector and that the uniformed officer if there were charges of larceny or receiving to be investigated, it was dealt with by the C.I.D.
Mr. Burge—When was a charge of the possibility of a charge first raised against Miss Davies in respect of a television set?—I cannot remember the exact date but it was sometime after the case back from her.
Chief-inspector Herbert said that the matter was brought on the notice of the C.I.D., but it was not in the hands of the C.I.D. at Marblebone Lane police station. The information was passed to him because he was in contact with Miss Davies. "It was through I was aware of her whereabouts."

investigations were made concurrently with the other investigation. The Magistrate said that any charge was made about

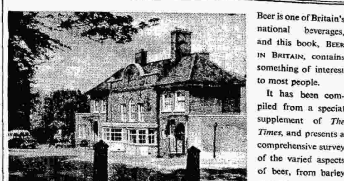

Herbert said Ward was a single man with no home and the lease of his flat and empty his expense. He went on: "I will find out if he will interfere with witnesses."
